Specialist Maths and Computing College

Headteacher: Mrs J Warburton

7 June 2018

Dear Students

You may remember that I wrote to you last term with the news that Mrs Warburton will be leaving Cardinal Newman at the end of this school year. It is encouraging to hear the many ways in which you have shown your appreciation for what she has done for you and the school.

It is clear that you recognise that her biggest priority has been in creating an atmosphere of respect, care and safety. She has also encouraged all students to believe in themselves and grow your own individual talents.

These qualities were in the minds of the governors when we were recruiting our next Headteacher and some of you were directly involved in helping with this, so thank you.

So I am now very pleased to let you know formally that a new headteacher has been appointed. Her name is Mrs Langstaff, and she will be with us from the start of term in September.

I know that you will make her feel welcome, that you will be honest with her about your own needs as students and that you will give her the same respect that you have shown to Mrs Warburton.

Yours sincerely

Dear Parents/Carers

You will recall that I wrote to you some weeks ago with the news that Mrs Warburton is retiring as Headteacher at the end of this academic year. The letter stated that the governors were intent on securing a suitable candidate to take up the role as soon as possible.

I can now tell you that following a thorough recruitment process the governors have appointed a new leader for the school.

We are delighted to report that Mrs Joanne Langstaff will commence her new role at the beginning of the new academic year in September. We are confident that she will build upon all that is good at Cardinal Newman and that she will also be able to bring new insights and ideas to carry us into the future.

Yours sincerely

Fr Peter C Montgomery
